

Impact of ISO 31000 on Existing ERM Programs

COMPLIMENTARY WHITE PAPER AVAILABLE FOR DOWNLOAD

23 February 2010

With the publication of the ISO 31000 risk management standard in November, risk professionals have had three months to assess its potential impact, especially to established ERM programs. They are finding that adoption of the standard is leading to a rise in risk management's importance, visibility and traction with executives.

Click here to download Impact of ISO 31000 on Existing ERM Programs, the latest white paper from Jon Piercey. Based in Sydney, Australia, Jon is a senior risk executive responsible for Methodware's operations throughout Asia and the Pacific Rim.