

Roundtable: Taking a holistic approach

27 July 2010

Operational Risk and Regulation assembled a panel to discuss the challenges of implementing a GRC framework in the current environment, as well as the considerable benefits of taking a holistic approach to risk.

This panel included representatives from five organisations:

- Tom Bolger, Vice President of global marketing for Methodware, an organisation which provides risk, compliance, audit and investigations software to over 1,800 clients worldwide;
- Isabelle Chevret, Corporate Marketing and Communications Director at MEGA International, an organisation specializing in business process, enterprise architecture, and governance, risk and compliance solutions;
- Matt Kimber, Chief Risk Officer for Marsh, the world's leading insurance broker and risk adviser with clients in over 100 countries;
- Sean Sullivan, Senior Director of product management at Actimize, a provider of financial crime, compliance and risk management solutions; and
- Loretta Wickenden, CEO, President and Co-Founder of Latilla, a provider of operational risk management software and consulting services to organisations worldwide.

For more information on the issues discussed at this roundtable, click here.